FANS KEYED TO HIGH PITCH AT SERIES OPENING

Huggins Announces Hoyt Will Probably Be In The Pitcher's Box

FANS STORM BALL PARK

Thousands Keep All Night Vigil, Strung in Long Line at Gate

By James L. Kilgallen
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 5.—With the annual World Series classic opening here today, Pittsburgh, was a-tingle with excitement, its natives keyed up to a nervous tension approaching frenzy fans here from all parts of the country and the contending ball clubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees, restlessly awaiting the hour when they will don their spangles and go forth to battle.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees announced this morning that he probably would pitch Waite Hoyt, a World Series veteran, in the opening game, and Manager Donie Bush of the Pirates indicated he would send Ray Kremer to the firing line. Both are right handers.

Fans stormed Forbes Field in droves long before the gates were scheduled to be opened at 10 o'clock this morning. The weather was cool, with a football tang in the air, and top coats were comfortable. The weather forecaster, however, predicted that it would warm up somewhat by game time, 1:30 this afternoon.

At dawn 2,000 dyed-in-the-wool bleacher fans, who had kept an all-night vigil at the ball park, were strung out in long lines at the ticket gates. By 7 o'clock this morning, fully 5,000 were fighting to hold their places against newcomers. All reserved seats had been sold and it is a certainty that a capacity crowd of 42,000 will witness the opening game.

The first man in line for a bleacher seat, and determinedly fighting to hold it, was Ralph Arkle, of Pittsburgh, who had been sitting astride a wooden box since 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Second in line was Lester McMichael, a youth of Connersville, Ind., who made a 350-mile trip by automobile to see the Series. Next was William Peters, an ex-army veteran of Baltimore, who took precautions against inclement weather by bringing a pup tent. Following him was George Sliker, who came all the way from Worcester, Mass., to see Babe Ruth crash a homer.

Ruth, in fact, is the star attraction as far as the fans are concerned. Only once before has the great home run slugger been on the scene of today's conflict, and that was in an exhibition game. The natives are going to the game much in the manner of a crowd to a circus and in the back of their heads reclines the fear that the elephant, Mr. Ruth, is going to break loose and spoil the show.

Betting odds changed at the eleventh hour, coming down close to even money because of the injury sustained by Herb Pennock, star southpaw of the Yanks, in batting practice yesterday. The New York club had previously been installed 7 to 5 favorites to win the Series. Pennock, who has never been beaten in a World Series game, was struck on the left leg just above the knee by a batted ball, and a blood vessel was ruptured.

Physicians said the effect of the blow could not be fully determined until this afternoon. They said Pennock might possibly be able to pitch Friday when the team opens in New York. The accident caused a near-panic among the Yankees as manager Huggins had been counting on Pennock for at least one victory, possibly two.

Ice treatment was applied to Pennock's leg to keep the flesh from swelling. Even if he is able to pitch it was feared that the injury would lessen his effectiveness.

From all parts of the country fans are here to witness the first two games which will be played here today and tomorrow before the contending clubs entrain for New York to play three more, if that many are necessary. The governor of Pennsylvania, John S. Fisher, the mayors of New York City and Pittsburgh, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, a hundred or more

SECRETARY JARDINE TO SPEAK AT FARM SCHOOL

Head of Agricultural Department to Visit Doylestown on Sunday

BIG ROTARY LUNCHEON

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5 (I.N.S.)—Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine will be the principal speaker at the annual harvest festival celebration at the National Farm School here on October 9, marking another year in the history of the school. More than 1,200 acres are under cultivation by young farm students here.

Every known crop that can be raised and a number of experimental crops are under cultivation. Samples of products will be displayed as a feature of the harvest festival.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 5 (I.N.S.)—What is declared here to be the first all-Pennsylvania Rotary Club luncheon ever held will be a feature of the pilgrimage of 150 Rotary clubs of Pennsylvania, here October 7 and 8.

The delegates are to be addressed by Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of State College, and two other speakers, heralded as of national renown.

A Rotary theater party is to be followed by a student-Rotarian mass meeting in Schwab Auditorium, where a featured speaker will be Hugo Bezdek, director of Penn State athletics. Presentation of new and old Rotary club songs is promised by Richard W. Grant, music director of the local Rotary Club.

The purpose of the pilgrimage to State College by Pennsylvania Rotarians is announced as a desire to have the club members study a modern college community at first hand.

All local fraternity houses are making extensive preparations for the entertainment of over 800 Rotarians.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 5 (I.N.S.)—Lancaster's new elementary school building, to be erected here soon, will be constructed entirely by local concerns.

Contracts for the general construction, heating and lighting, plumbing and electrical work, awarded by the school board here, went exclusively to Lancaster contractors.

A REGRETTABLE CONFESSION

(EDITORIAL)

WHAT was the exact meaning of this significant sentence in the leading editorial of the Bucks County Independent's issue of September 30th?

"We will try to forget politics and concentrate on the best interests of Bristol—that is, until next election."

From any angle you look at it, it is a confession. It has a bluntness and candor probably not intended, but it is all the more important for that fact.

The exact and literal meaning of the statement is to be had by eliminating unnecessary words, which brings it down to this: "We will try to concentrate upon the best interests of Bristol until next election."

If the concentration "upon the best interests of Bristol" is expressly stipulated to be only "until next election," then obviously the real meaning of this premature and wholly uncalled-for utterance is that as next election comes around the best interests of Bristol can go to pot while the Bucks County Independent wages another office-seeking campaign.

But the confession is even broader than that, for if the words mean anything they mean that as next election approaches, the best interests of Bristol will be sacrificed, perhaps again be made a target, while the Independent stages a campaign based upon some pretext not as yet known to itself.

If that is true of next election, it is tantamount to saying that it has been true of past elections; in other words, that two years ago the fake "tax grab" issue was a mere pretext; that this year the fire defense issue was a mere pretext; that all of the Bucks County Independent's pretended interest in, and concern for, the best interests of Bristol, is, after all, mere pretext, just pretense.

What a sad state of affairs when a newspaper bluntly asserts that it is ready, with the approach of any election, to put aside the best interests of its own town, its own community, in order to set up a fight, any sort of a fight, upon any sort of a pretext, not because of any reason, but just to be obstructive and destructive!

The statement—which is not ours, but that of the Bucks County Independent—has one value. It throws a very significant light upon the sincerity of the "issues" espoused by the Independent in a political campaign, and upon its real concern for the best interests of Bristol.

We are sorry, indeed, that a newspaper which can be candid and courageous, and so proved upon a recent occasion, practically in the same breath asserts that its whole preference and inclination is otherwise.

It was a regrettable confession, but one well worth remembering.

HARVEY DIES FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED

Langhorne Man Was Hurt In Accident Last Thursday

WAS A HIT-RUN CASE

LANGHORNE, Oct. 5.—Samuel W. Harvey, of 316 North Bellevue avenue, this place, died yesterday from injuries sustained last Thursday, when the car in which he was riding was struck by a "hit-and-run" driver along the Newtown-Langhorne Pike. Death was due to a fractured skull and a broken back.

James A. Williams, of Wilburtha, was arrested last Saturday by the Wilburtha State Police at the request of Patrolman F. W. Augustine as the suspected driver. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Berger, of South Langhorne, and released under bond to appear in two weeks from the date of the accident. However, yesterday a hub cap was found by Patrolman Augustine near the scene of the mishap. But it did not belong to Williams' machine.

Funeral services for Harvey will be conducted at his late home by the Rev. I. L. Siz, pastor of the Langhorne M. E. Church, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Friends' Burying Ground, here.

Harvey's only survivor is a daughter, Miss Margaret Harvey, with whom he resided. Harvey was a life-long resident of this place.

Harvey was one of three victims of the accident last Thursday. William Dallas, of Newtown, is still in Mercer Hospital, suffering from injuries about the head. He was riding in an automobile driven by R. V. Keller, of Langhorne. Keller was driving in the same direction as Harvey, when he came abreast of Harvey, another machine sped between the two vehicles, throwing all three occupants to the ground.

ROBBERIES ARE LAID TO CRANK BURGLAR

Small Articles Taken, Jewelry Ignored at Several Morris Heights Homes

SEEN BY ONE PERSON

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 5.—Bucks County authorities believe that the thief who entered several homes at Morris Heights early yesterday was a crank burglar because of the fact that he stole only a flashlight, raincoat and 60 cents and helped himself to some food, while ignoring jewelry and silverware. The thief found some of the windows of his victims unlocked and in other places he jimmied the sashes with a screwdriver.

The thief worked during the heavy wind and rain storm that raged between 2 and 4:30 o'clock. The homes were those of W. Robert Stockham, Maple avenue; L. C. Case, Highland avenue; L. G. Davis, Highland avenue; Miss Rachel Carver, East Trenton and South Pennsylvania avenues; Mrs. Rose Newman, North Pennsylvania avenue; W. C. Kuhn, Fairview avenue; and Charles L. Ogborn, West Trenton avenue.

An imprint of the robber's shoe was found in a flower garden in the rear of the Case home. Miss Carver saw the thief and said he was a tall, slender man. At one house the thief ate bananas and smoked a hand-made cigarette. At the Case home the kitchen window was badly damaged.

Chief of Police Cooper and Officer Burns were notified of the robberies and spent some time in the section where the thief worked. Police believe that the thief was the same one who stole valuable jewelry in the Manor Park section a few nights ago.

Slight Accident Occurs On Main Street, Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 5.—A slight accident occurred on Main street, here, last evening at 5:10 when a driver who was not apprehended crowded a large sedan into the rear of a bus owned by the Reading Company.

The left front fender, bumper and radiator of the sedan were damaged, and the driver, a young woman, suffered slightly from shock.

SOCIETY TO MEET

The Women's Home Missionary Society of Bristol M. E. Church will hold a rummage sale on Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening, at Seneca's store, 614 Wood street.

LATE NEWS

BURLINGTON, Oct. 5.—By a curious chain of circumstances, Burlington firemen, responding to a false alarm early today had two pieces of apparatus badly smashed and one man injured.

Fred Kindle, of Federal street, a member of the Mitchell Fire Company, who was hurt, received his injuries when he was thrown from a pumper when it struck a rut in the road. He received treatment at the office of Dr. Richard Anderson.

The false alarm sent the apparatus speeding to the East Burlington bridge. En route to the structure, a ladder fell from the truck of the Hope Fire Company. The driver brought the vehicle to a stop and the racing Mitchell pumper, following closely, crashed into the rear of the preceding machine, notwithstanding strenuous efforts of the driver of the rear car to avoid the collision. Both vehicles were severely damaged.

Returning from answering the alarm, Kindle was thrown from the pumper.

TO EXHIBIT WAR FILM AT SOUTH LANGHORNE

Picture To Be Shown Under Auspices of Jesse W. Soby Post

DATE IS NOVEMBER 4TH

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Oct. 5.—Many lives were lost, the archives of a dozen or more nations searched, and eight years consumed in the making of the great film classic, "The World War," which will be shown at the Casino Theatre, here, November 4th.

Mr. George F. Zimmer, connected with the U. S. Naval Intelligence Department during the war, and who was commissioned by the United States Government to make the film, went personally into all fields of action with his staff of camera men to obtain the "shots" seen in this picture.

Mr. Zimmer was with the Grand Fleet in the North Sea; with submarines in their under-sea work off the coast of Ireland; he crossed the ocean to France and England countless times on destroyers, battleships and transports, always in the zone of action. He was with the aviators, not on the ground but with them in the air where the action was taking place; he used land planes, sea planes and dirigibles. He went aboard surrendered U-boats, destroyers, and secured never-to-be-forgotten close-ups of submarine warfare. His cameras were trained on the greatest concentration of artillery fire in history; he men recorded the bombardment of seacoast towns from vessels thirty miles out at sea, and his cameras were covering President Wilson's moves while he was in London and Paris.

Commenting on Mr. Zimmer's service to his government in making this film, Admiral W. S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, said:

"Mr. Zimmer has performed a great service to the Government and to history. Throughout the entire work of making this great picture during the war and during the aftermath, he personally directed the making of pictures, and the actual experience of having seen and lived through them has given him a special knowledge of all our actions 'over there' possessed by no other person. He executed his duty in an excellent, efficient manner, and obtained splendid results. The conscientious and fearless manner in which he carried out his work amid hardships and dangers deserves the warmest praise."

KIDDIES AT FAIR IN HUGE NUMBERS

Fifth Annual Event at Doylestown Breaks Opening Day Records

BIG CROWD TODAY, TOO

(Special to Courier)

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 5.—More than 10,000 persons including several thousand school children from every section of Bucks County passed through the gates yesterday at the opening of the fifth annual Doylestown Fair. Enthusiastic patronage, excellent harness, running and steeplechase racing, together with a happy midway crowd, made it a gala opening. Several thousand persons attended the fair last night in addition to the day crowd.

Today is another big day and the gate up until noon nearly doubled the last year crowd on the second day. Tonight the first of a monster display of fireworks to be given every night in front of the grandstand for the balance of the week, will be presented. This is also Rotary-Kiwanis Day at the fair. There will be a joint meeting of the two clubs tonight at 6:30 at the Friendship Thimble Social dining room.

Persons from distant points were numerous yesterday. Veteran fairgoers from New Jersey and many from the Allentown and Reading sections were there. From Delaware and other states, horsemen were on hand. All of them highly praised the 1927 edition of the Doylestown Fair, describing it as one of the very best agricultural fairs in the East.

A "very good first day business" was reported by the concessionaires. The kiddies had the time of their lives. Many of them had the day "figured out" before they arrived. One large contingent of youngsters came from Chalfont. Rather than spend money to come to Doylestown by train they organized a bicycle pilgrimage to the fair grounds so they could have more money to spend on a "day of fun."

Judging in practically every department started yesterday. The cattle show judging started this morning. Competition is keen everywhere.

Several dozen babies were checked at the nursery tent yesterday. Mothers have found that the system works out well and have passed about the word that "it is safe" to check the infants in care of a competent staff of nurses and assistants.

The sheep and hog department judging was completed yesterday but the official lists have not as yet been turned in to the fair office. George Neff, of Pine Lawn Farm, Doylestown, famous as a Berkshire breeder, swept that class in the Doylestown Fair show again. His entries were head and shoulders above others in Berkshire competition. Mr. Neff has the distinction of breeding the first and second aged boar that won the first honors at Trenton Fair, as well as the grand champion of the same fair and every other fair in which the animal was entered this year.

In the Chester White class, A. D. Lawrence, of Quakertown, carried away the great share of honors. The sheep entries were par excellence, the majority of honors being carried away by L. F. Nicholas, of Mt. Bethel. His six-year-old Cheviot ram won first prize and has never been beaten in competition. The Doylestown Township boys and girls pig club also carried away a first prize, with Joseph Kramer, Jr., and Charlotte Kramer having the prize-winning entries.

During the afternoon the Doylestown High School band furnished music in front of the grandstand.

INCENDIARY BLAZE DAMAGES COTTAGE AND CAUSES PROBE

Officer Claims Building Was Set Afire in Two Places

DAMAGE ONLY SLIGHT

Property Was Insured For $3,000.00, It Is Claimed

CROYDON, Oct. 5.—What is claimed to have been an incendiary fire damaged a frame bungalow here early this morning. Constable Thomas Crawford is making an investigation and promises some startling revelations.

The bungalow is owned by John Husslo, Emilie and Maryland avenues. The bungalow is located at Maryland and Tulp avenues. It was built about three years ago, but has been occupied only about one month of that entire time, when it was rented as a club house. The club occupied it over the week-ends only.

Neighbors living across the street discovered the blaze at about 11:53 last night. Firemen were summoned and were confronted with quite a difficult fight.

According to Crawford the building was set afire in two distinct places. There is no cellar beneath the structure, but the ground is hollowed out and it was here that it is alleged a pile of wood and paper had been ignited. This fire set the joists of the first floor aflame.

In the attic another fire was started, it is said, and a pile of wood, paper, etc., was found burning in one corner. The property is insured for $3,000.

Hospital Auxiliary To Stage Big Card Party

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Harri-man Hospital will hold a card party in the Elks' Home on Radcliffe street, Monday night.

This will be the first of a series of card parties to be given by the Auxiliary during the winter months.

Although previous card parties have been very successful, the ladies of the Auxiliary are going to do their utmost to make the coming parties successful, both socially and financially.

There will be "500" and pinochle played at the card party Monday evening, and table assignments will be made at 8:30 sharp. Those arriving late will be given a tally with a score of one hundred for each game they lost. There will also be a number of beautiful prizes awarded.

Needlework Guild Holds Important Business Session

At a business meeting of the directors of the Needlework Guild, held yesterday in the Community House, twenty-six directors responded to the roll call. Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, president, announced that the exhibition will be held the second Tuesday in November, and asked every director to notify her members in regard to the two or more new garments they are to contribute.

Mrs. D. O. Taylor, secretary, requests the directors to examine the yellow cards given them yesterday to ascertain if they received business meeting cards instead of notification cards. If so the secretary desires them to return same to her and receive notification cards.

Those who assisted with the sewing on Tuesday are: Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, Mrs. Fred Kring, Mrs. Edgar Odyke, Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, Mrs. William Carver, Mrs. Edward Renk, Miss Martha Hughes, Mrs. James Leferts, Miss Bessie Iredell, Mrs. Harry Pope, Miss Ella Mathias, Miss Katherine Keating, Mrs. Harry Daniels, Mrs. Griffith Williams, Mrs. Russell Ellis, Mrs. Minto J. Hill, Miss Esther Lawrence, Mrs. David O. Taylor.

Yom Kippur Begins This Evening; Observe It Here

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will be observed by thousands of Hebrews, beginning at sundown tonight.

The holiest in the Jewish calendar, the day marks the end of a ten-day period of penitence, which began with the New Year, 5687, or Rosh Hashana. Custom calls for complete abstention from worldly activities, and orthodox Jews fast until sunset tomorrow.

Special religious services will be held in synagogues tonight and tomorrow.

VISITS HERE

Thomas Young, of Southampton, spent the week-end here as the guest of Mrs. Susan Young, Bath street.

WHAT MAKES IT GREAT

What gave baseball its envied title of the "Great American Sport?" It is a sport in which a relatively small portion of the nation's population participates actively. Only eleven cities are represented in the two major leagues and the minor leagues and semi-professional clubs do not carry the sport in its professional aspects to all communities. The far-famed world series has made baseball the great American sport.

From the stands in New York and Pittsburgh, on newspaper and theater automatic baseball boards, by radio and telegraph, in the newspapers and by human messenger all America is a spectator at each world series game. Though some will be indifferent, all will witness this climax in the American sport calendar.

Millions follow organized baseball from the spring training season to the final contest of the world series. Other millions pass through the gates of the major league ball parks in a season. The score of every "big league" game is carried into every nook and cranny of the country by newspaper, score board, telegraph, telephone and radio. But it takes a world series to arouse the interest of the perennial fan to fever heat and to stir the indifference to at least mild curiosity.

World series is a misnomer for a succession of contests so peculiarly and completely American, although in its application it does not exaggerate the importance of the games.

PROBLEMS OF THE FLOOD

While official agencies are studying what should be done about the Mississippi Valley flood problem, civilian volunteers are also active, and plans for prevention are appearing on every side. The variety and multitude of their recommendations prove the magnitude of the task. It also indicates that safety is going to rest upon not one remedy but upon a combination of them.

Levees and more levees. Spillways to carry off the surplus waters, and thus save cities situated as are New Orleans and others which lie below the level of the Father of Waters. Reforestation and a new type of hill-farming to prevent running-off and gullying. Fertilization of the Mississippi flood plain with flood mud and its systematic cultivation. Storage reservoirs to hold back a part of the flood waters.

Two questions in relation to this problem the next congress is to be called upon to decide. First it will determine, if the several blocs can agree, what plan of prevention is to be followed. After that it will say, provided enough vote the same way, who is to pay for it.

The public either within or outside the flood area is not concerned so much with the method to be pursued as long as some method is pursued. But there is likely to be some division of opinion on who is to foot the bill, and it will be a formidable one. The question is will the cost all come out of the federal treasury or will it all come out of the treasuries of the states directly concerned, or will it be divided between the two? Some will argue that the nation as a whole should assume full responsibility. Others contend it is a burden that cannot rightly be placed upon the shoulders of taxpayers outside the flood territory. And there is a third group which thinks the nation should help the menaced states help themselves.

Teach Them To Save

No lesson the child can learn is more important than that. The boy or girl who learns early to save will form thrift habits of value.

You know the saying you did during the war and the liberty bonds you bought. There is no reason why you should not do this every month and every year.

Due to the never failing power of compound interest and the power of your children can grow to positions of wealth and independence.

Our stockholders take shares for investment; to save for the education of their children; to buy a home later on; to have money to care for them as they grow older. Most shareholders pay from five to ten dollars per month. Some pay as high as Two Hundred Dollars per month.

SYNOPSIS

It is the summer of 1898; Hank Armstrong has won the Maple City races with his mare, Sloe Eyes. His son, Bob, takes no interest in horses, much to Hank's disappointment, but divides his time between inventions of gasoline engines, all unknown to his father, and the Mayor's daughter, Rose. Bob and Rose are in the drug store one evening when eleven Bentley, just returned from the city, makes advances to Rose and Bob quarrels with him over the girl. Meanwhile, Hank has gone to his stables only to find that Sloe Eyes, having recently foaled, is dangerously sick.

Meantime Sam had reached the Mayor's home and was knocking at the door. At that moment His Honor was descending the stairway dressed unceremoniously in a flannel nightgown, and bearing in one hand a lighted lamp and in the other arm a cat. He stopped suddenly, hearing the knocking, shifted the cat to the other arm and opened the door.

"Is lookin' to Mister Bob," began Sam. "His Pa wants him."

"Why, I think Bob and Rose went to some social," answered the Mayor. "What's the matter with Hank?"

"Sloe Eyes is sick."

"Hank must feel awful," exclaimed the Mayor, staring at the boy. "Tell him I'll be right down."

Bob caught her hands in his.

Hank was pacing nervously to and fro before Sloe Eyes' stall, stooping now and then to rub the soft nose of the little colt, who gazed dumbly on his mother. The veterinary's instruments were spread about on the straw, and he watched the horse intently, pulling up an eyelid now and again to see whether the animal were responding to his treatment. Now a group escaped Hank's lips as he stopped pacing long enough to look into the stall. By this time the Mayor had arrived, half dressed, and rushed to his friend sympathetically.

"I came as soon as I heard, Hank," he said, clasping the man's hand. "Anything I can do?"

"Martin's in there," responded Hank, appreciative of the sympathy. "I can't even bear to watch Jim."

The Mayor nodded and laid a consoling hand on Hank's shoulder. The two stood silent. Then Martin began to pack up his bag. Finished, he looked down on Sloe Eyes, lying motionless, and started toward the stable door.

"So you think she's all right now?" Hank rushed eagerly toward the doctor, with the Mayor breathing a sigh of relief.

Martin looked at Hank, puzzled. Then he followed the horseman's glance toward his bag and realized the fact that his leaving had led Hank to think everything was all right. He shook his head slowly. "I'm afraid it's hopeless, Hank," he said. "It's a stroke, and there's only one chance in a million to save her."

"But you ain't goin'?" You said there was a chance, didn't you? Hank dropped back, staring at the veterinary in horror.

"But I'm not going to stay up all night with a horse that's as good as dead!" The doctor shrugged his shoulders.

Hank's eyes narrowed angrily. He took a step forward. "You mean that you're quitting!" He glared furiously.

"What else is there to do?" The doctor climbed into his waiting rig.

"Martin can go if he wants to," Hank turned to the Mayor, "but while there's one chance in a billion I'm going to stay with that little mare."

Hank suddenly became a whirlwind of action. He ripped off his coat, flung it over the stall door, calling to the negroes for more blankets and hot water. He rolled baseball celebrities and even One-Eyed Connelly, the famous gate crasher, are in town to see the spectacle. Among the major and minor league managers present are Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Cubs, Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Nationals, Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves, Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns, George Moriarity of the Detroit Tigers and Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox. Among the ball players here are Jacques Fournier, of the Braves; Max Carey, of the Dodgers, formerly captain of the Pirates; Bill McKechnie, one-time Pittsburgh manager, and Jack Onslow and Bill Engle of the Washington Board of Strategy. To further enliven the occasion this afternoon a 22-piece band will be on hand, and so will the famous baseball comedians, Nick Altrock and "Al" Schacht, who promise a trans-Atlantic flying act in addition to new quirkies in golf and to swim on the third base line. Mr. Altrock, his handsome face aglow with spiles, mingled with the baseball elite this morning attired in golf knickers and seems to be enjoying himself handing out ready-made repartee.

More than 400 baseball writers, from all parts of the country, have been assigned places in the press section, or "dugout," directly back of the home plate. A network of wires, which carry every detail of play, has been cut into this section. Radio apparatus has been set up for the broadcasting of the Series direct from the park.

The fans converging on Forbes Field are evidencing the keenest interest in how the slugging of the famous Waner Brothers, Paul and Lloyd, will compare with that of Babe Ruth and his home run twin, Lou Gehrig. It is as easy to start an argument on this question if Pittsburgh today as was on the "long count" question immediately after the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

THE NEW ERA IN TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION

IN seven years, the time consumed in making an out-of-town call has been cut to less than half.

Nearby points are now reached just as on local calls. That spells CONVENIENCE.

In 1920 it required about fifteen minutes to reach a city two hundred miles away. Today, the nation-wide average time is five minutes, and few calls require as much as ten. That spells SPEED.

Last year alone the amount of telephone "trouble" was reduced 17%. Storm- and trouble-defying cables are fast replacing open wire lines. That spells DEPENDABILITY.

Canada, Cuba, and now parts of Europe and Mexico are within talking distance. That spells GREATER SCOPE.

A more convenient, a faster, a more dependable service, and a service which reaches almost the entire English-speaking world.

And it did not "just happen." Fifty years of research, study, development, experiment, and experience are responsible for this new-era telephone service.

King You!

You live better than any of the kings of old. Where you switch on the electric light, he had a smoky torch. You go to bed on springs—his couch rested on planks. A few over-worked minstrels were the best he could get together when he wanted music. You turn a dial and a great symphony fills the room. And today, a thin copper wire carries more power than his scepter ever boasted.

You have a thousand kingly comforts that the emperors of distant days never knew. To what magic power should you offer thanks? Turn the pages of this paper to the advertisements!

Advertising tells you about each new invention, every improved product that comes on the market. It describes what these new products will do, where to get them, and just how much you should pay for each one. It helps you purchase wisely and economically. Through it you hear—far sooner than the fastest courier of ancient times—what's new!
